Getting Ready to Student Teach? Keep Ahead with Technology

IMC Technology Workshops, Fall 2017

IMC @ Library, Lower Level

SMART Board Basics (same workshop offered on alternate dates and times)

Tuesday, September 19, 2017, 3:45 - 5:00 PM, Wednesday, September 20, 2017, 5:15 - 6:30 PM

The touch-sensitive interactive whiteboard is a powerful medium for engaging students and audiences and has several tools for enhancing teaching, creating lessons, and delivering presentations. In this workshop students will practice basic SMART Board skills and be introduced to Notebook software that accompanies this board.

SMART Board II - Creating Interactive Lessons (same workshop offered on alternate dates and times)

Tuesday, September 26, 2017, 3:45 - 5:00 PM / Wednesday, September 27, 2017, 5:15 - 6:30 PM

Enhance content with multimedia and motivate students with interactive lessons using Notebook's enhanced software tools such as Activity Builder, Concept Mapping, and templates for Collaboration and Gaming. Create your own lessons or assessments, or modify existing resources. Participants will view the use of these tools in a variety of disciplines - Art, Language Arts, Math, and Science.

Robotics in the Classroom

Tuesday, October 10, 2017, 3:45 - 5:00 PM

Come and meet Dash & Dot, two robots that were created to teach children to code while they play. Using free apps that are downloaded to a compatible tablet or smartphone, Dash will sing, dance and navigate all around the classroom. This workshop will also include steps on how to incorporate robotics into the classroom, and a discussion/demonstration of other popular educational robots such as KIBO.

Nearpod

Thursday, October 26, 2017, 3:45 - 5:00 PM

Nearpod is an "all-in-one" presentation and polling application. Teachers and students can easily create lessons and integrate multimedia and built-in interactive activities. It's formative assessment tools help engage learners, collect feedback, and assess their understanding in real time, using mobile and web-connected devices.
